when infectious "bugs" stimulate white blood cells in a specific way, they release a substance called endogenous pyrogen, which signals the brain's hypothalamus to raise the body's thermostat setting.

prevent their escape and establishment in the environment. The fish are all female and sterile.

international whaling laws are one thing but international maritime laws are quite another.